

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Proclamations by the Governor

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Whereas, the people of this Commonwealth have, during the past year, enjoyed to a marked degree the blessings of God in abundant harvests, good health, happy homes, and great progress and advancement in all directions, it is especially fitting that following the suggestion of the President of the United States we should set apart a day for the manifestation of our gratitude;

Therefore, I, William Hodges Mann, Governor of Virginia, do fix upon Thursday, the 24th day of November, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer to the Giver of all good, and enjoin upon the citizens of this Commonwealth to assemble in their places of worship, and to the members of families to meet together in their homes to offer up grateful prayers and thanksgiving, and to ask God as the Father of His people to bless our homes and firesides, and make us a people whose God is the Lord.

Given under my hand and under the lesser seal of the Commonwealth, at Richmond, this ninth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ten, and in the one hundred and thirty-fifth year of the Commonwealth.

By the Governor:

B. O. JAMES,

Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Section 110 of the Constitution of Virginia, as ratified at the election held November 8, 1910:

Section 110. There shall be elected by the qualified voters of each county one county treasurer, one sheriff, one attorney for the Commonwealth and one county clerk, who shall be the clerk of the circuit court. There shall be elected by the qualified voters of each county for four years commissioners of the revenue for each county, the number, duties and compensation of whom shall be prescribed by law.

There shall be appointed for each county, in such manner as may be provided by law, one superintendent of the poor and one county surveyor.

Cattle Quarantine.

Whereas, in pursuance of an act of the General Assembly of Virginia, approved February 18, 1896, entitled "An Act to Provide for the Protection of Domestic Animals," etc., as amended by an act approved March 12, 1908, the State Live Stock Sanitary Board have established live-stock quarantine lines, rules and regulations, and notified the Executive of their action, as follows:

From the fifteenth day of March, 1911, continuously, unless this order is revoked, until the fifteenth day of December, 1911, inclusive, no cattle shall be moved from the following counties to that portion of the State not herein mentioned except for immediate slaughter, and then only according to rules and regulations for moving quarantined cattle.

List of counties in Virginia quarantined for the year 1911, owing to the presence of cattle ticks (Margaropus Annulatus) therein, is as follows: Greensville, Isle of Wight, Nansemond, Southampton, Sussex, Surry and that portion of York county not included in the Bruton magisterial district of said county, and that part of Warwick not included in the Newport News magisterial district of the said county of Warwick.

"From the counties and parts of counties in that portion of the State of Virginia, which is quarantined against splenic, southern or Texas fever, cattle shall only be moved or allowed to move interstate to points outside of the quarantined area in accordance with the regulations for immediate slaughter."

Therefore, from the fifteenth day of March, 1911, no cattle are to be transported from said area south or below said State quarantine line, except by rail or boat, and then only for immediate slaughter, and when so transported the following regulations must be observed:

(a) When any cattle in course of transportation from said area are unloaded above, north, east, or west of this line to be fed or watered, or for other purposes, said cattle shall be placed in pens or yards set apart for infected cattle, and no other cattle shall be admitted thereto.

(b) On unloading said cattle at their points of destination, chutes, alleyways, and pens, sufficiently isolated, shall be set apart to receive them, and no other cattle shall be admitted to said chutes, pens and alleyways, and the regulations relating to the movements of cattle from said area, prescribed by the cattle sanitary officers of the State where unloaded, shall be carefully observed. The cars or boats that have carried said stock shall be cleaned and disinfected as soon as possible after unloading and before they are again used to transport, store, or shelter animals or merchandise.

(c) All cars carrying cattle from said area shall bear printed placards, the letters of which shall be plain and not less than $1\frac{1}{4}$ inches in height, to be affixed by the railroad company hauling the same, stating that said cars contain southern cattle, and each of the way-bills, conductor's manifests, and bills of lading of said shipments by cars or boats, shall have a note plainly written or stamped upon its face with a similar statement. Whenever any cattle have come from said area and shall be reshipped from any point at which they have been unloaded to other points of destination, the cars carrying said animals shall bear similar placards with like statements, and the way-bills, conductor's manifests, or bills of lading be so stamped. At whatever point these cattle are unloaded, they must be placed in separate pens, to which no other cattle shall be admitted.

(d) No boat having on board cattle from said district shall receive on board cattle from outside of said district. Cattle from said district shall not be received on board when destined to points outside of said district where proper facilities have not been provided for transferring the said cattle from the landing to the stock yards and slaughter houses without passing over public highways, unless permission for such passing is first obtained from the local authorities.

(e) The cars and boats used to transport such animals, the chutes, alleyways, and pens used during transportation, and at points of destination, shall be disinfected in the following manner:

Remove all litter and manure. This litter and manure may be disinfected by mixing it with lime or saturating it with a 5 per cent. solution of 100 per cent. carbolic acid; or, if not disinfected, it may be stored where no cattle can come in contact with it during the period from February 1st to November 15th of each year.

Wash the cars and the feeding and watering troughs with water until clean.

Saturate the entire interior surface of the cars and the fencing, troughs, and chutes of the pens with a mixture made of $1\frac{1}{2}$ pounds of lime and one-quarter pound 100 per cent. straw-colored carbollic acid to each gallon of water; or a solution made by dissolving 4 ounces of chloride of lime to each gallon of water may be used; or disinfect the cars with a jet of steam under a pressure of not less than 50 pounds to the square inch.

Notice is hereby given that cattle infested with the Margaropus Annulatus, or southern cattle tick, disseminate the contagion of splenetic, or southern fever (Texas fever), therefore cattle originating outside of the district described by this order, or amendments thereof, and which are infested with the Margaropus Annulatus ticks shall be considered as infectious cattle and shall be subject to the rules and regulations governing the movement of southern cattle.

Stockyard companies receiving cattle infested with said ticks shall place such cattle in the pens set aside for the use of southern cattle, and transportation companies are required to clean and disinfect all cars and boats which have contained the same according to the requirements of the above regulations.

These rules and regulations shall also apply to the importation into this State of cattle from sections outside of Virginia included within the Federal quarantine line.

Now, therefore, I, Wm. Hodges Mann, Governor of the Commonwealth, call upon all officers of this State, and the citizens generally, to be vigilant and active in enforcing the provisions of the said act and maintaining the said quarantine rules and regulations, so that the live-stock industry of Virginia may be protected against Texas or splenetic fever. I further call attention to the penalties imposed for violations of the provisions of said act, or the rules, regulations, orders, or directions of the State Live-Stock Sanitary Board establishing and governing the said quarantine.

Given under my hand and under the lesser seal of the Commonwealth, at Richmond, this fourteenth day of March, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, and in the one hundred and thirty-fifth year of the Commonwealth.

Arbor Day.

In compliance with the laws of this Commonwealth, I, William Hodges Mann, Governor, do hereby designate and set apart Friday, April 7, 1911, as Arbor Day, and earnestly urge upon the citizens of this State on that day to plant trees, shrubs, vines, and flowers along the public highways, in public grounds and other appropriate places, and especially in the grounds contiguous to our public school houses, to the end that comfort and beauty may combine for the benefit and happiness of our children, and that they may be encouraged not only to plant trees and flowers, but to value and protect them.

Mothers' Day.

The homes of a State are the fountains of civic life and civic virtue, and in proportion to their purity and the righteousness of their teaching will be the men and women coming from them to make up the life and power of the State. The mother is after all the head and queen of the home, and upon her, to a very large extent, depends the future of her children. Her life is full of love and sacrifice, and her happiness is to give the most enjoyment and pleasure to those about her.

Being sure that the people of Virginia feel as I do, I earnestly request that upon the second Sunday in May next a white flower may be worn by every citizen of this State, and that in every possible way the mothers of Virginia may be honored.

I respectfully request the ministers of all denominations to bring this proclamation to the attention of their people and enjoin upon them respect, reverence, and love for their mothers.

I also request that the teachers in the public schools of the State read this proclamation to their pupils and to follow it with such simple ceremonies as will call the attention of the children to the obligations under which they rest to their mothers and their duty of obedience and love.

Given under my hand and the lesser seal of the Commonwealth, at the Capitol, in Richmond, this twenty-fourth day of April, A. D., nineteen hundred and eleven, and in the one hundred and thirty-fifth year of the Commonwealth.

Prayers for Rain.

To the People of Virginia:

The drought has become so serious, threatening not only the crops, but the water supply of some of our cities, that unless we have rain within the next few days great suffering must result;

I, Wm. Hodges Mann, Governor of Virginia, therefore call upon all the people of the Commonwealth, of every name and denomination, when they assemble in their respective churches and places of worship and in their homes, to offer earnest prayers to God, that abundant rain be sent upon the suffering earth, and that we may be blessed as a people.

Given under my hand and under the lesser seal of the Commonwealth, at Richmond, this eleventh day of July, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, and in the one hundred and thirty-sixth year of the Commonwealth.

David Quin Eggleston

DAVID QUIN EGGLESTON, son of John William and Lucy Nash (Morton) Eggleston, was born in Charlotte county, Virginia, June 10, 1857, and died in the city of Richmond, Virginia, October 17, 1909.

Mr. Eggleston passed most of his youth in the country, and obtained his primary education at the classical school of David Comfort, in Charlotte Court House. His academic education was completed at Hampden-Sidney College, which he entered in 1873 and from which he was graduated in 1877. He then studied law at the University of Virginia. In 1879 he was admitted to the bar, commencing the practice of his profession at Charlotte Court House, Virginia, and he soon developed into one of the safest counsellors and most careful practitioners in his section of the State.

On October 29, 1883, he married Miss Sue Daniel, of Charlotte county. She and their six children survive him.

For a long time prior to his election to any office, Mr. Eggleston had taken an active part in politics in his county. He also served, for several years, as a member of the State committee of the Democratic party, and he was for some time chairman of the Democratic committee of the congressional district in which he resided. During his political career he rendered most efficient service to his party, and had a large share in shaping its policies. He was recognized as one of the best-posted men in Virginia concerning political matters.

From 1897 to 1901 Mr. Eggleston was a member of the Virginia Senate, as the representative of the district composed of the counties of Charlotte and Mecklenburg, and served with conspicuous ability on various important committees in that body. Here he soon gained Statewide prominence, and left his impress upon much of the important legislation enacted during the four years of his service as senator. His knowledge of the conditions and needs of all departments of the State government was equal to that possessed by any other man in public life in Virginia. From the beginning of his career to the time of his death he was constantly consulted, while the legislature was in session, concerning the expediency of proposed legislation, and, because of his extraordinary ability as a draughtsman, he was often called upon to set forth in his clear, concise style the ideas which others desired written into the laws. All such services he rendered cheerfully and promptly as if personally interested. No one knows definitely the vast amount of work for which he neither desired nor would receive any of the credit he deserved—due to his extreme modesty, and to the pleasure it gave him to be of service to others.

In 1901 he was elected by the citizens of Charlotte county as their delegate to the Virginia Constitutional Convention of 1901-2. Here, again, his through knowledge of public affairs, coupled with his vigorous intellect and judicial temperament, made him one of the most valued and valuable members of that body of able and distinguished Virginians. He made few speeches on the floor of the convention, and he never attempted oratorical flights. His quiet, modest nature made him prefer to furnish information to others, and let them use it in debate. But issues arose upon which he felt it was his duty to speak, and then he commanded the attention of his auditors. On such occasions he spoke earnestly, forcefully and effectively. This will not soon be forgotten by those who heard his argument in favor of biennial legislative sessions. (See Debates of Virginia Constitutional Convention, 1901-2, pp. 586-598.) The character and intellect of the man, his broad-mindedness, his full and accurate information, his direct and incisive style in speaking, his earnestness and sincerity, and the well-known fact that he never made a speech unless he had something to say, all entitled, and caused, his views to have great weight with those who heard him. Always courteous and considerate, he yet had a peculiar dry humor—slightly ironical at times, but never offensive. With one droll remark he often demolished a long speech of some opponent.

While the Constitutional Convention was still in session, Mr. Eggleston was elected by the legislature as Secretary of the Commonwealth for the term ending February 1, 1906. He continued, however, to serve as a member of the convention until the final adjournment of that body. His services as Secretary of the Commonwealth, like those rendered by him in every other position of trust or honor, were invaluable.

The new State Constitution made the Secretary of the Commonwealth elective by the people, and in 1905 Mr. Eggleston, being a candidate in the State Democratic primary for re-election for the term which would expire on February 1, 1910, was, without opposition, declared the nominee of his party, and was re-elected in the next ensuing general election. Again, in the State Democratic primary in 1909, he was, without opposition, nominated for the term which would expire on February 1, 1914, but died before the general election next following.

He was an able, upright, conscientious and much-beloved public servant. He was faithful to every trust, and fully measured up to the requirements of them all. Prominent men have been heard to say that he could have filled, with ability and distinction, any office within the gift of the people of his State. He was patient and extremely careful—always thorough, yet prompt to act. He was one of the most discerning of men; he understood human nature, and in his calm, gentle way he could soothe the excited, and often make the most prejudiced take an impartial and dispassionate view of things.

He was a storehouse of knowledge for those who sought information concerning public matters, and was a most interesting conversationalist; but he was so modest, retiring and unobtrusive that only those who knew him well could fully appreciate the real depth of the man. He was attractive even when he had little to say; but when he could be induced to throw off his customary reserve and join freely in conversation there was an indescribable charm in the twinkle of his eye, and sunlight seemed to shine from his countenance.

There was nothing vindictive in his nature. He overlooked the faults and frailties of mankind—never forgetting that "to step aside is human."

There was always that gentleness and forbearance upon his countenance which invite the trust and love of little children. He hated wrongdoing; but he could not hate men—not even those who did wrong. He was never censorious or uncharitable.

He loved his home, and was affectionate, gentle and considerate as husband and father. She, who was his loving and faithful helpmeet, and their devoted and dutiful children, will ever hold him in blessed memory.

His character was above reproach. He was an excellent judge of what was right, and never went contrary to his own safe judgment. The path he trod lay in the sunlight, and every step he took was unconcealed. A distinguished Virginia judge has said he was "the embodiment of 'untainted honor and naked truth.'"

His death was sudden. Seized with pneumonia, he was taken off within a week. He realized that his end was near, but he knew that there was no reason why he should fear the future. Though the darkness of death was falling about him at noontide, he had reaped the harvest of a well-spent life; so, calm and serene, he watched the twilight gather, and at his Maker's summons departed, bearing his sheaves with him.
